LIBERTY OR LICENSE?

REV. B. D. SNUDDEN ARRAIGNS THE CALIFORNIA PROSPERITY LEAGUE

California Prosperity League vs. Real Prosperity.

"Woe unto him that buildeth a town with blood and stablisheth a city by iniquity," Habbakkuk, 2-12.

With these prophetis words, Rev. B. Dudley Snudden, pastor of the First Methodist church preached a stirring sermon last evening. He said in part:

Ever and anon in the history of the world a word or phrase has been used as a shibboleth to influence men and society to secure certain ends. France during the period of the revolution adopted as a motto "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity." In America, "Freedom and Liberty" has been a much used phrase. Although the true meaning of "Liberty" has been perverted to the low level of license.

Scarcely a great moral movement is launched until a deceptive phrase is coined to offset or thwart it. Just now we hear a great deal about prosperity but above the din and cry the words of my text ringing loud and clear, "Woe to him that buildeth a town with blood and stablisheth a city by iniquity."

This text is always true and the harvest is always blood and misery. We thought to build a town and establish a city and promote prosperity by enslaving the black man but we reaped the inevitable harvest of blood and misery through years of civil war. The Prosperity league claims that prohibition will throw a great many men out of work. Possibly it will. For during an adjustment of conditions it may temporarily leave some men idle and some stores vacant.

The logic of the so called Prosperity League will be to continue it to provide these men a job. Likewise to arrest and imprison the robber, the race track gambler, the prize-fighter, the opium vender, the white slave dealer would be to interfere with trade and throw men and women out of jobs. Better idle men and vacant buildings than to ruin men and destroy homes.

Look over the personnel of the Prosperity League, mostly foreigners but a few influential bankers of Los Angeles. A lady recently interviewed one of these bankers. Being a large depositor she made bold to ask the banker for a favor, a position for a young man in the bank. "He is well educated, capable, but he is a drinking man." "I am sorry," said the banker, "but we could not employ him if he drinks." "Then," replied the lady, "why do you indorse and uphold with your name and influence an organization and institution that sells the drink that produces the drinker and finally the drunkard?"

I charge the saloon as the enemy of industry and prosperity. In fourteen days 737 men in the city of Los Angeles were arrested for drunkenness and only the worst cases were arrested. These men were rendered incapable, inefficient and unqualified for the duties of life. Go to our asylums, our county houses, hospitals, county jails and penitentiaries and see the army of men incapable of taking their part in the army of industry but a burden on the backs of tax payers.

The idea that prohibition will destroy prosperity is another fallacy of the Prosperity league. They would blind the public's eye by holding up the revenue money. It can best be illustrated by a sponge that absorbs and absorbs and only returns a portion of what it absorbs. Each year the traffic absorbs over eight millions of the people's money and when squeezed by the license system returns a few thousands of dollars. The liquor men must think we are fools when they try to make us believe that the future prosperity of this great state is based upon the liquor traffic. Our great crops and our great resources will still remain. I am a firm believer and advocate of prosperity but I want it equalized. Not a prosperity that impoverishes the many that the saloon keepers and brewers may ride in high priced automobiles and live in luxury and plenty while the common people suffer.

We can never have real prosperity while the wages of the laboring men are squandered over the saloon bar. Even a child knows that it cannot buy candy or fruit with the penny that is dropped into the sewer. Men of business know or ought to know that the only prosperity that the traffic helps is to make itself prosperous at the expense of the drinking man's family. Other lines of legitimate business and the public in general and the members of the Prosperity league should hang their heads in shame to stand as sponsors for these priates on society.

Labor statistics show that the same amount of capital invested in other lines of industry would employ a much larger number of hands. I maintain that the same energy and expenditure of money if directed in locating new industries to Los Angeles will far outweigh in bringing benefits and producing prosperity of a permanent and lasting character and best of all that will help all and hurt none. Industries that would not find it necessary to solicit assistance and funds from unwilling business men under veiled threats of compulsion. In conclusion I venture this assertion that not a member of the Prosperity league would want a saloon located next to his residence. The liquor traffic endangers the public welfare, is the greatest foe to prosperity and puts more men out of employment both temporarily and permanently than any other agency. For the permanent good and future glory of our great state I urge you all to vote California dry and help others to do likewise.

TRAGEDY ON DESERT

T. H. ROSENBERGER TELLS HOW TUNGSTEN CITY DIED AND WAS DESERTED

"A year ago," said T. H. Rosenberger, the well known mining man, 147 South Brand Boulevard, "Atolia, the tungsten city on the Mojave desert, but a busy center. From a mere group of a mill and a few houses it speedily blossomed out into a thriving community. Miners rushed from all parts of the state to locate ground and work the placers that contained the valuable metal that was to make their fortunes.

"It was not long before there was a row of houses and places of business to keep them company all the way along the Santa Fe line that was run to Randsburg. There was every prospect that Atolia might be developed into a permanent mining center, but the common fate of some of these mining towns overtook it.

"The war created an unusual demand for tungsten through the development of the steel business in which tungsten is used for toughening the steel. The miners of Atolia imagined they saw a fortune before them. They thought the steel business could not get along without them. So they began raising their prices.

"Seventy per cent. tungsten ore prought $5 a pound and the Atolia miners thought they could always get the price. When the price began to fall they refused to believe that the market had dropped and kept on demanding the highest price. This naturally irritated the steel magnates. They were willing to pay a reasonable price for tungsten but not a prohibitive price. The Atolia miners thought they had the situation in their hands and consequently refused to abate their rates.

"This sent the steel men out looking for other tungsten fields. They found them in South America and Atolia immediately discovered that the opportunity for getting rid of the ore they had been saving was gone. Tungsten fell to $1 a pound for seventy per cent. ore. The steel men to all offers replied "we are not buying."

"It seems a pity that the greed of the miners should have ruined their prosperous city. The houses now stand all desolate and bare. The owners have all departed to other mining centers a number of them are in Randsburg and in Johannesburg. The houses are for sale and you can have any of them at your own price. It is not likely, however, that they will be sold. The demand is not great. Across the valley, where the California-Nevada railway runs from Mojave to Inyo county, there is another old mining camp called Goler. It was once a flourishing little place in the days when the placer miners found gold there. It is now a ghostly place, with many houses and no people. Atolia seems destined to a similar fate.

"There are just six men in the tungsten camp and they are to be found at the original mill that was erected and did good work long before the recent rush. Had the placer miners of Atolia conducted their business legitimately they would still have a market; but their foolish attempt to blackmail the consumer for that was what their scheme amounted to, proved their ruin. The United States Steel company is getting its tungsten from its own fields in South America and Atolia is doomed to remain a skeleton city in the desert."

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Tuesday; westerly winds.

"BLACK FRIDAY" DEATH TOLL ON LAKE ERIE

LATEST REPORT FROM REGION OF LAKE STORM SAY FORTY-EIGHT PERISHED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 23.—The latest accounts of "Black Friday" on Lake Erie bring the total of the dead to forty-eight. It is likely that many others lost their lives in the great storm. A great part of this death toll is to be attributed to the wreck of the James B. Colgate, with twenty-one men. Lake Erie is the shallowest of all the great lakes and the gales raise a terrific short, cross sea in it, which is extremely dangerous. Other losses are expected to be reported as it is known that many vessels were out in the storm.

CARRANZA'S BEST GENERAL IS KILLED

VILLISTAS DEFEAT DE FACTOS BADLY AT PALOMAS NEAR CHIHUAHUA CITY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

EL PASO, Oct. 23—General Carlos Ozuna, who has always been considered one of the ablest of the Carranza generals was killed in a battle with the Villista troops at Palomas, near Chihuahua, Friday. It is stated that the Villista forces were commanded by Villa himself. Ozuna was shot dead and his command of 2000 men was cut to pieces. General Martin Salinas who succeeded Ozuna was severely wounded. United States agents witnessed the battle.

BULGARIANS DEFEAT ROUMANIANS BADLY

LEFT WING OF DEFENSE IS CRUSHED AND INVADERS COME WITHIN SIX MILES OF CONSTANZA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SOFIA, Oct. 23.—The Bulgarians crushed in the left wing of the Roumanian defense this morning and are now within six miles of the important seaport of Constanza. This is an official report. Meanwhile the Teuton forces are also advancing on Constanza.

FRENCH CAPTURE STRONG HILL NEAR SAILLY

POWERFUL GERMAN OFFENSIVE IS REPULSED AND COUNTER ATTACK GAINS TERRITORY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, Oct. 23.—The Germans have been striving hard to regain the initiative without success. Their powerful attacks on the French lines in the neighborhood of Sailly-Sallisel broke down. In the Chaulnes Wood a large group of Germans was cut to pieces and 120 prisoners taken. French troops counter attacked and took Hill No. 123, a very important point, northwest of Sailly.

ASSASSIN OF AUSTRIAN PREMIER ON TRIAL

DR. ADLER REFUSES TO EXPLAIN MOTIVES THAT LED HIM TO KILL STURGKH

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

VIENNA, Oct. 23.—It has been impossible up to this point to extract anything from Dr. Adley, assassin of Premier Sturgkh. The trial began today. Adler refuses to say anything by way of explanation. It is stated in a German paper that Dr. Adler was a violent anarchist. Other German newspapers state that he is of unbalanced mind and that his sister has been confined in an insane asylum for ten years.

RUSSO-ROUMANIANS CONTINUE RETREAT

GERMAN ARMY PRESSES ON THROUGH THE PALANKA PASSES AND MAKES STEADY PROGRESS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PETROGRAD, Oct. 23.—The Russo-Roumanian army continues its retirement through the mountain passes into Roumania. The pressure of the enemy is enormous. As the Roumanian army is but poorly supplied with artillery it is able to make but feeble resistance. The Roumanian army retreating through the Palanka Passes is in danger of being cut off and the Russian flank is thus also endangered.

VILLISTAS SURROUND PART OF CHIHUAHUA

VICTORIOUS BANDITS DRIVE CARRANZISTAS INTO CITY AND PREPARE FOR ATTACK

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

EL PASO, Oct. 23.—The victorious Villista force that is said to be commanded by Villa has advanced to Chihuahua and surrounded the west section of that city. The beaten troops of the de facto government were driven pell-mell before the bandits and many of them were killed before they could obtain protection with the Trevino force that is holding the city. The Villistas are preparing for another attack.

MAN A SOCIAL BEING

MUCH CAN BE DONE BY CO-OPERATION THAT MAN CANNOT DO ALONE

Few will deny that man was created a social being and is enabled to create and accomplish anything with the aid of his fellows which he would be utterly unable to do alone. A bird cannot flock by itself and a man cannot cooperate with himself hence the necessity of a community of interest. This principle is the basis of life insurance.

As an individual business investment, no man could assume the risk on another's life for twice the premium charged by a life insurance company, consequently the man who allows his wife and family to risk the uncertainty of his life when he can lay that financial burden on his willing fellows, is acting in a very unwise, not to say criminal manner. Yet many a man is allowing his dependents to take this chance in a perilous degree, year after year.

The very large majority of men have high motives and lofty ambitions. Such a man is living for his family and its financial future is the matter of supreme concern to him. For them he toils and struggles that he may give them happiness and comfort now, and lay up provision against a rainy day and the time when he will be unable to work longer. He lays his plans and carries them out for a time and possibly all the way through, but alas! The fickleness of fortune causes so many to go awry, that at age fifty only about five per cent have made anything like the success they had anticipated, while to some of them "the old man with the scythe and long whiskers" has beckoned and said "Come."

After fifty, very few are able to recoup lost fortune, and of those left at sixty-five only about three out of a hundred have accumulated a sufficiency to produce an adequate income, but are either wholly or partially dependent on relatives, friends or the state for support.

Why, then, is it frequently so hard to get men to consider the great provision made in reserve life insurance where a protection against such awful odds can be provided, either in the contingency of death or in a sinking fund for old age? The only answer I have ever been able to find is in the psychological condition which causes men to abhor the thought of death or old age to such an extend that they dislike to discuss any subject bearing on it, and to lull themselves into the belief that long before either such condition has come to them, they will have made ample provision by the unusual care and ability. Unfortunately, many of these men do not wake up until they have traveled a long way in the rough road of experience, and when they do finally come to see the real value of insurance their rate has increased to a point where they are able to carry only a small part of what they could have carried in their younger years, if, indeed, they can secure it at all. For life insurance must be secured when you don't need it in order to have it when you do, and it is inexorable that you can't "beat it's game" because if you fail to buy it early you will have to make up the back payments when you do buy it, the principal difference being that you are then paying for something you didn't have. The total cost on an "endowment at 65" for 35 years at age 30, is less than that for the 25 years at age 40, yet for the period between 30 and 40 the insurance, though finally paid for, was not in force.

Men of age and experience frequently say to me "Why don't you make young men insure?"

The business of the life insurance agent then, is one of the highest service to his fellows, and one which, in its possibilities for good, is excelled by no calling except that of a minister of Jesus Christ, and the burden of the uninsured and underinsured, in view of what they might provide, is as heavy on the heart of the conscientious "life man" as are the souls of the unsaved to the man who is proclaiming "the unsearchable riches of Christ." Like the minister, too, the average life underwriter is poorly paid in proportion to his ability and industry because men will look to neither their temporal nor spiritual well-being without much patient persuasion. The cost of life insurance and the insured would be less, if men would buy it like they do fire insurance or any other necessity, without so much work on the part of the agent, but experience has shown that they will buy it in no other way. The "Equitable of London," the oldest and one of the best life insurance companies in the world, employs no agents, and its business is so small that one of the large companies in America does as much business in a day as it does in a year.

The experiment of the state creating a fund and insuring the lives of its citizens, is an equally gigantic failure. Wisconsin has been trying it but during the last year wrote only forty-six contracts insuring a total of only $45,000.

If people, then, can be made to realize that life insurance is furnished at cost, and a very low cost, by the large mutual life insurance companies, the total exxpenses and taxes of several of them being only thirteen to fifteen per cent of their income, and that no profits are paid to stockholders but that the entire savings in mortality and surplus in interest belongs to the policyholders, most of it being returned to them in dividends, a large part of the prejudice which sometimes exists against life insurance companies will have been overcome, and the great benefits of life insurance will be extended more easily and cheaply.

FOOTHILL CLUB

MRS. WYMAN IS HOSTESS TO ORGANIZATION OF NORTH GLENDALE WOMEN

Mrs. E. B. Wyman was hostess to the members of the Foothill club when that organization of ladies met last Friday afternoon at her home, 1326 North Maryland. The decorations were of chrysanthemums now so beautiful and so plentiful while the red berries and the brilliant green of the Christmas holly reminded all of the nearness of the holidays.

Mrs. Wyman had provided a unique entertainment for her guests. All were provided with cards and asked to represent the titles of books. Much ingenuity and clever work as well as much merriment resulted from this contest. Mrs. W. W. Stone was fortunate in guessing the greatest number of the titles and was the recipient of a handsome prize. Very nice refreshments were very daintily served. Artistic souvenirs which were handpainted pictures of Mrs. Wyman's residence are greatly prized by the guests. Mrs. Sherman, Mrs. Wyman's mother was a special guest of the club.

The next meeting of the Foothill club will be held at the home of Mrs. McMillan on Mountain street, November 17.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK

Glendale was visited last night by a slight earthquake shock of the same nature as those which are usually felt here. The tremor was felt about 6:45 or thereabouts. It started in the northeast and ran irregularly toward the southwest. The shock was of rather a stronger nature than some of the recent shocks and in some spots occasioned quite a visible shaking of houses and vibration of articles of furniture. The shock was accompanied by a rumbling noise. The seismic tremor laster from ten to fifteen seconds and was succeeded by two minor tremors. In some sections of the city the shock was not perceived. Reports from other parts of the state show that the tremor was generally felt along a distinct area up to Fresno and throughout the oil district. Riley Lyon, of Lyon's grocery, says that he was sitting at home reading when the shock came. It was strong enough to shake the book he was reading out of his hand. R. A. Petersen says that the shock distinctly shook the Filger building and was more distinct than the usual shocks which occasionally visit Glendale.

SUPREME COURT'S BIG TASK

There are Americans who assert that the country is really governed by the supreme court, which has the task of interpreting and deciding on the legality of many of the important measures passed by congress. The judges of the supreme bench are even now making some progress on the 700 cases that are before them. These cases involve the whole economic structure of the country. There seems to be no doubt that this will be a memorable session in the history of the court.

Some of the questions that are before the court are: Are trusts of any kind legal? Are workmen's compensation laws constitutional? Are "blue sky" laws regulating capitalization of corporations constitutional? Is the new organic army law constitutional? Can the United States under existing treaties give a five per cent. tariff discount to foreign goods reaching these shores in American vessels?

For the first time since 1914 the court is sitting with a full bench. The recent appointments of Associate Justices Brandeis and Clarke have filled the vacancies. This will enable the court to decide many cases that were considered too important to be decided by the depleted bench last year. One difficulty is that Associate Justice Reynolds, former attorney general, cannot sit in any of the government cases that originated or were on the calendar when he was directing the government's legal business.

In like manner Mr. Brandeis is precluded from sitting on the bench when any of the labor cases in which he was employed as counsel come up for trial. Some of these cases were important workmen's compensation suits. The legality of the whole law of compensation will be gone over by the supreme court. There were also trust cases in which Mr. Brandeis was employed that are on appeal. He cannot sit on any of these.

On the court's decision in the Harvester and United Steel case depends the whole future of the economic system of the country according to the legal lights of the land. These cases will bring up the question whether a good trust, not one accused of unfair competition, is permissible. These cases are considered the most important trust cases in history.

It will be remembered with what intense interest the country followed the cases which resulted in the "unscrambling" of the Standard Oil trust and how the verdict of the public at the time was that the separate companies would still be the Standard Oil trust under another form. That verdict is now said to be justified by experience and the dissolution of the Tobacco trust in like manner seems to have worked little change. It need not be wondered at then that the public is taking little interest in the trust cases now before the supreme court; yet they are of more importance than the old cases.

Other important cases that will be decided are the Reading or anthracite coal case which will decide whether or not the coal monopoly shall be broken, and the Pennsylvania railroad case which will settle whether or not the Interstate Commerce Commission has the power to order railroads to furnish additional equipment. The divisor cases will dispose of $40,000,000 in litigation between the government and railroads over the old railway mail pay cases and the three per cent. tariff discount case will test the validity of many trade treaties this country has made with other governments.

EVERYBODY COOPERATE

The leading question now is what tree to plant?

Mr. Watson, our city manager, will tell us at 1:30 Tuesday at the Masonic hall. Learning as to what tree to plant it becomes every Glendale philanthropist, male or female, old or young, to commence tree planting immediately.

Remember that every tree planted is a living monument to the planter.

Everybody cordially invited.

E. W. RICHARDSON.

AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

What might have been a serious accident, but fortunately resulted in only some damage to the two autos involved, took place Sunday afternoon on Colorado and Central. C. S. Young, 3417 West Washington, Los Angeles, driving a Ford, who had the right of way ran into a Hupmobile, driven by E. S. Baker of 434 North Pasadena avenue, Los Angeles. The Hupmobile had cut in ahead of the Ford. The consequence was that the Ford smashed into the Hupmobile and did some injury to one of the rear wheels, while one of its own wheels was torn off and other damage done.

BAPTIZES GREAT GRANDSON

Quite a unique ceremony was that witnessed in the Church of the Good Shepherd, Fifty-third street, Los Angeles, Sunday morning, when the Rev. George Eley of 1210 Lomita avenue, Glendale, administered the sacrament of baptism to Alvin Robert Mills, his great grandson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Mills of El Paso, Tex. Mrs. Mills, granddaughter of the Rev. George and Mrs. Eley, has been resident in Los Angeles during the past two months. She returns to El Paso this week. The little mission church at Fifty-third street was filled with an interested congregation to witness the ceremony. The Rev. R. Raudenhaus, rector of the church, assisted in the ceremony. Claude Eley and Mr. Clarence Peck were godfathers and Mrs. Clarence Peck godmother.

PROFESSOR J. W. GREGG

One of the leading educators in the state, Professor J. W. Gregg, head of the agricultural and landscape department of the University of California, has arranged to give a free stereopticon talk in Glendale on the evening of Thursday, November 2. His subject will be "Public Parks and Playgrounds; Their Moral and Esthetic Value to the Community." Professor Gregg is a forceful speaker and the High school auditorium should be crowded with interested hearers. Coming specially from Berkeley to deliver this lecture, it is hoped that Glendale will afford the distinguished visitor a rousing welcome. This unusual program will be given under the auspices of the Glendale Garden society. November 2, at 8 o'clock p. m.

Patriotism isn't just dying for your country. It's trying to live for it—honestly and uprightly.

JENNINGS TELLS LIFE STORY

The First Baptist church was crowded last night by a most attentive audience who had assembled to hear Al Jennings preach on his conversion and tell something about his Christian experience. Mr. Jennings spoke on the "Three Pardons." He told how he had lived a life of recklessness and indifference. How his heart was hardened against all good influences. He told of his arrest and conviction and how he got his first pardon from President McKinley and was released from the penitentiary. His second pardon he said was when President Roosevelt restored him to his American citizenship which he hed forfeited by his crimes. His third pardon was that which he received when he turned from the world to Christ.

Jennings said that he was moved to give himself to the cause of Christ by the Rev. John Troy, who came to hear him when he was speaking in Glendale on his career. Since then he has devoted himself to this cause and had found a peace which nothing could destroy.

TWO IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

The Evening News stands for California dry, and the management of The Evening News will vote for the dry amendments, one and two, on November seven.

The licensed saloon has no moral right for an existence and may it be the will of the people to rise up in their right and power and vote it out.

The Evening News also stands for the election of Stephen C. Packer for supervisor of this Fifth supervisoral district. Mr. Packer is a resident of this community and he is a gentleman who is in every particular deserving of the support of the entire district.

SAVE THE TREES

Any fool can destroy trees. They cannot run away and if they could, they would still be destroyed—chased and hunted down as love of fun or a dollar could be got out of their bark hides, branching horns, or magnificent bole backbones. Few that fell trees plant them. Nor would planting avail much toward getting back anything like the noble primeval forests. During a man's life only saplings can be grown in the place of the old trees, tens of centuries old, that have been destroyed. It took more than three thousand years to make some of the trees in these western woods, trees that are still standing in perfect strength and beauty, waving and singing in the mighty forests of the Sierras.

Through all the wonderful, eventful centuries since Christ's time, and long before that, God has cared for these trees, saved them from drought, disease, avalanches, and a thousand straining, leveling tempests and floods; but He cannot save them from fools, only Uncle Sam can do that.

JOHN MUIR.

A HAPPY SATURDAY

A delightful afternoon was spent by friends and members of the Bird and Flower club on Saturday as out-of-doors guests of Mrs. Ella Richardson, 805 South Central avenue. Arriving at 12 o'clock, luncheon always brought by the individual members, was eaten on the south side of the house. S. Parker, over whose head many years have passed, joined the party and ate his lunch as gaily as any of the children. A big box of grapes, thoughtfully provided by our hostess, was then attacked and quickly demolished. The Rev. J. H. Henry who had come by special invitation addressed the children in his sympathetic and original manner, telling stories of birds he had come across. He told of a colony birdhouse, possession of which had been taken by a group of sparrows. One day a blue bird came along during the temporary absence of the sparrows, took a fancy to the bird house and flew in. When the sparrows returned to find the house occupied they became very excited and tried to force the blue bird out. Failing in their endeavors they flew away for assistance, coming back with a small army of sparrows. But the blue bird still refused to vacate. So the sparrows got busy and plastered up the entrance to the house with mud, walling in the blue bird most effectually.

When grown up people finally heard the story they climbed up a ladder and broke open the mud wall. But the blue bird was dead. Mr. Henry finished his talk by giving a reading of George Washington and his hatchet, written by the late Rev. Bob Burdette; the humor was so great and Mr. Henry's style so inimitable that his hearers laughed and laughed until their sides ached with laughing. A fifteen minutes study period on the economic value of birds was then given by the leader and all present carefully took notes. Wilfred White, one of the members, gave a very interesting account of the attitude adopted by the Boy Scout organization towards birds. A synopsis of Wilfred's most interesting talk will be given in tomorrow's Evening News. Then followed an hour of play. Mrs. Richardson offered a prize of a motto card to the child finding the most bird nests in her spacious garden. She knew herself of two, and was surprised to find that keen eyes discovered five. Edmund Parker won the motto and other children assisting in the search were given honor buttons. Thus ended a most enjoyable afternoon. The adults present were S. Parker, Rev. J. H. Henry, Mrs. E. Eckman, Mrs. Ella Richardson and Mrs. Nanno Woods (leader.)

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. W. E. Edmonds yesterday morning preached on the topic "The Indwelling God," taking as text the words of Paul, Colossions 1:27, "Christ in you the hope of Glory."

Last Sabbath we celebrated in this church the Holy Communion, where every one who partook of it by His act consecrated himself anew to God. From that point shall we go forward or fall back? Are we nearer to God today or further away? Where shall we be three months from now when another communion season comes around? In that period before us will occur the Thanksgiving season with its home comings and rejoicings, shall we be truly thankful then that we are further along on the road or shall we have backslidden? These are the questions it is important we shall ask ourselves and truly answer. This idea of the indwelling God was not peculiar to Paul or his time, we find it away back in the Old Testament when God spoke unto Moses and unto the land of Egypt that He might "Walk among them."

In the center of the ancient temple was the "Mercy Seat," the "Holy of Holies." Have we erected this altar in our homes, a place where God may walk among us? We go to church and come out of it to mix with the world, but too often the church and the world do not seem to mix, we set Him aside for the world.

Can you go out into the world and forget what you have experienced in the church? No, I cannot conceive it, "Christ is in you the hope of glory," for Him you should even be willing to lay down your life. The preacher spoke of the wonderful work accomplished by Dr. Johnson in Africa where that highly successful missionary had been privileged to build up a congregation of 4000 and even now with war on all sides the work still goes on. What work you do in hope or deed do it all for the glory of God, for this should be the aim of your life, to be rooted and grounded in the faith and so be filled with the love of God that passeth all understanding.

Even Your Everyday Groceries Should be Chosen With Care

We hear much in this day and age about careful buying. Farmers take great care in choosing food for their stock.

If is is important to have select grains, etc., for hogs, cattle and horses, it is far more important to secure the BEST on the market in groceries.

There are seconds in groceries, as in other lines, and many inferior articles are hid under private brands of grocers.

You can depend on this store giving you only the VERY BEST, PURE FOOD PRODUCTS.

SALYER'S PIANO SALE

TWO CARLOADS OF HIGH CLASS PIANOS AND UP TO DATE PLAYERS—ALSO A DANDY LOT OF SLIGHTLY USED INSTRUMENTS AT RIDICULOUSLY LOW PRICES

New pianos during sale from $225 up; terms as low as $5 per month.

Elegant players, new, $390 up; terms as low as $10 per month.

Sale now on. Sale now on. Open evenings—wide open.

We located in Glendale permanently some time ago; but this is our first special sale. And it is going to be a hot one while it lasts. After many years experience in factory and city ware room, we must say that the bargains we now offer to the Glendale public, to our friends and neighbors, are such that they will not long go begging.

We propose to put out such exceptional values during the sale as not only to dispose of the entire lot in short order but at the same time make for ourselves a host of new friends.

We propose to do our full share to stop this cityward trend, so noticeable in all lines of trade, for there isn't a lick of sense to it.

All loyal Glendalers prefer to buy at home if sure they can afford to do so; but they do want to go into a good stock and find what they want at the right price.

All right, Salyer knowing this proposes to meet the situation and go them one better.

During this sale customers must be willing to lose money to trade elsewhere.

Once this fact is realized both the public and we are safe. We will give you the right goods, the best guarantees, the lowest prices and the easiest terms, where terms are desired. Yes, we can and will save you money.

We have a large and varied stock of pianos, size them up. We have not a lot of unknown or doubtful makes, but standard goods, the kind and quality of which no honest man will question.

The same is true of our players.

As most Glendalers know, for years we were engaged in manufacturing pianos, good ones, too.

During that period we sold to certain big distributors one of which was a manufacturer, as well. That one, now in turn, supplies us at factory rates, the best sellers in market and enables us to meet all comers as to prices and terms, no matter how absurd.

Many have remarked the volume of stock always carried by us for a town of this size. Now our idea of stocking up, and staying with it in Glendale is to make it profitable for our neighbors to buy to advantage right at home. It is easy to be loyal to one's own town when by doing so one can save money. Right here is where we beat the cityites for our expenses are light and we do our own selling.

Look at these prices:

NEW EMERSON—It is the genuine make, no argument possible as to its rank and class, a standard for two generations, tone that would melt in your ear, touch at once responsive and satisfying. The whole get up of the Emerson in general and this one in particular, stamps it a musician's piano. Now about the price. On any metropolitan floor, so far as we are aware, this elegant San Domingo mahogany is marked and sold:

Regular price .....$475
Our Sale price .....$329

ART STYLE SHONINGER — Did you ever see a Shoninger yet that was not a good one? You never did. Several Shoningers around Glendale are up in years, twenty- thirty, even more. These instruments are sound as a dollar, good all the way through. You can't get them away from the owners. More than half a century ago the Shoninger instruments were marketed country wide, to a long list of satisfied customers. Today they are better than ever. In fact they are better than most. The tone is deep, full and sympathetic with a peculiar sweetness hard to describe but easily recognized by a true musician.

Regular Price .....$500
Our Sale Price .....$348

Are you an admirer of extra fine circassion or of dark Flemish oak or of fancy dull mahogany? We have the very latest of each of these beautiful woods excelling almost anything in market. Take your pick and choice:

Regular Price .....$475
Our Sale Price .....$336

Maybe your idea is for a nifty little fumed oak built and guaranteed for a lifetime of service. One of the famous Kahler & Chase lines. Same style, same price in mahogany:

Regular Price .....$300
Our Sale Price .....$225

Here is a sample instrument not so well known; sounds well, looks well and comes under a guarantee, a cabinet grand at that:

Regular Price .....$275
Our Sale Price .....$168

We have a number of used, some very, very little ranging in price from $110 up. Such makes as Hardman, Nugent, Arlington, Carleton and others. But it is too long a story and you could see more in five minutes than we can describe in a column like this. Very little can be learned by phone so call for our machine and inspect personally. That's the only way. You will be surprised and gratified at our offerings, and if you do not wish to pay the cash, Salyer will arrange terms to your entire satisfaction.

Call up, call on or call for Salyer Piano House, Brand and Broadway, Black 116. 1444-J. Open evenings. Grafonola Headquarters. Please call up your friends. Tell them of this sale.

SELF-IMPORTANCE

The great artist, whether painter, sculptor, architect or musician, often has a sense of his importance to mankind, but it was honestly and directly expressive. Stradivarius is reported to have said that even God could not make one of his violins without him. One of the great Renaissance masters, in commenting on his design for one of the orders, calmly says that it is superior to those of the Italian masters. In all these cases, and many others which might be instanced, we have the outcome of childlike faith and pride, together with a total absence of self-consciousness. Men in those past days played their part in life without imagining themselves in the dual position of actors and spectators of their own deeds, and their work was none the worse if they sometimes appreciated their merits at an exaggerated figure. — The Builder, London.

U B D.

With crash and smash and many a bash,
The great world's series has gone.
The football season is on.
With bing and ping, and spitball's sing,

It's quite much too cool for the B. V. D.,
A snug union suit is much better.
But daily we're hearing from K. C. B.
In his odd little New York letter.

And the rains keep a coming; all Nature is humming,
Tho' beans have been pretty hard hit.
This may not be verse, but we've seen a lot worse;
(It's our business to get out our bit.)
